Thanks. Rich is going to write up a quick statement. Let's review to get it the way we want things messaged.

EN:

- Russian government access to DNC (for about a year)
- GOP PAC candidates' networks compromised
- Clinton and Trump networks compromised
- Going to publish at 11:30

FBI:

- Allow DNC to speak for themselves
- think tanks, election committees, PACs are attractive targets; a cautious sector. We've done a lot of outreach to this industry.
- Less confidence on GOP side (EN: would it be more accurate to say that the PACs were targeted? She is fairly confident that they were compromised)
- threat from Russia is far more active than any other country (confirmed that this is off the record)
- Chinese activity may be impacted by 5 point agreement

Crowd Strike and the DNC will comment. Both will be pretty vanilla in nature. Not looking for us to make any statements.

10-4. The D and DD are aware.

Is the DNC and/or CrowdStrike going to put out their own public statement as well? Has Mike Sussman indicated whether they will provide us a copy of any statement they plan to make? Do you want me to reach out to anyone there or do you just want to wait for the in person meeting Friday.

Eric

Story on DNC will post on The Washington Post website this afternoon. I will speak with Ellen Nakshima this morning with Rich Quinn. We will likely have no comment. She's just going to run by the story with us and we can correct her if she's off the mark.

Jim,

Spoke with Ellen and we're good for 11:00 am teleconference call if you are. It will be off the record to discuss the nature of her story, option to contribute something on background if so desired.
